Global electro-mechanical component manufacturer Geeplus has appointed Actronic Solutions GmbH as their new German distributor.

Actronic Solutions, based in Adelsdorf near Nürnberg, is an established distributor of electro-mechanical devices and recently acquired the electromechanics and servo components division from MACCON Antriebskomponenten GmbH.

Under this new agreement, the electromechanical and servo components division will continue to operate independently as Actronic-Solutions GmbH under the direction of Volker Löffler, while the motors, controllers and HiRel/Mil division will operate as MACCON Antriebskomponenten GmbH under the leadership of Ted Hopper.

Geeplus has enjoyed a long and successful distribution agreement with Maccon for their voice coil motors, solenoids, actuators, stepping motors and electromagnets and and look forward to the continued success under the new Actronic Solutions banner.
